Plan Big Parade, Entertainment For Hallowe'en

A Hallowe'en observance that will surpass all previous celebrations of its kind is in the making for the youngsters of the town. Under sponsorship of the Andover Recreation committee delegates of several cooperation organizations met Monday night to complete arrangements for the annual affair which made such a big hit in the past two years.

The highlight of the occasion will be the big parade downtown starting at 6.30 p.m. when all the youngsters in costume will march up Main street and to the Memorial auditorium where another exciting

Central PTA Dads To Direct Meeting

Fathers of the Central PTA will take over the first meeting of the year at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 17. Not only do they count twice in the attendance competition of the school rooms, but they will conduct the whole affair.

To keep in tune with the gaiety of the evening Harold Howe II will introduce Stephen Whitney of Phillips academy, himself a PTA father, who will speak on "The Perils of Fatherhood." Appropriate slides will illustrate his subject.

An added attraction will be the presentation of Italian folk music by Mrs. Josephine Caliri Baker, a member of the International institute, who will appear in costume. Refreshments will be served.

The Red Cross bloodmobile made a three-day visit to Andover last Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday and although the total number of pints of blood collected has not yet been released, Mrs. Harold Johnson, chairman of the registration committee, reports a well-filled schedule, and Mrs. Alden Cook, residential recruitment chairman, reports the response from all areas of the town had been most heartening, in fact, the best ever.

Assisting the technical and medical staffs that accompany the unit were the following Andover volunteers:

Nursing, Mrs. Charles Gregory, chairman; registered nurses: Mrs. Douglas Glennie, Mrs. Archie

Approve License For Ann's Cottage

The selectmen Monday night voted to approve the application of James F. and Anne M. Keaney, doing business as Ann's Andover Cottage, for an alcoholic beverage license at their restaurant on S. Main st.

The application now goes to the alcoholic beverages commission for approval before the license can be issued.

The Merrimack Mutual Fire Ins. Co., 342 N. Main st., was granted a license to keep and store 5700 gallons of No. 2 heating oil.

Harold S. Cates, 279 N. Main st., was appointed a special police officer for the Arden estate.

Record Enrollment For Central PTA

With returns still incomplete the Central PTA membership drive has sent the enrollment soaring to a record figure of 1032 to date, a jump of nearly 100 over the figure of last year which made Central the largest unit in the state.

The drive still has a few more days to run which should bring the enrollment up even higher, thus placing Central again up among the ranking units of Massachusetts.

Whistle Language

I remember reading once about a couple of Yankee railroad telegraph operators. As I remember it they worked in separate towns on opposite sides of a wide river, back around the turn of the century. One Spring there was a big flood, and it washed out the bridge, and the telegraph wires along with it. There was no communication between the two towns, and all trains were stranded.

Then one of the operators, sitting before his dead key, heard a sound that was strange yet familiar. He listened — ran out to the station platform — and sure enough, a far-off locomotive whistle was calling him in Morse code. He hopped aboard an engine on the siding, and soon he and his pal across the river were swapping news and information by whistle telegraph.

"Marconi had nothing on Yankee ingenuity," Bill remarked when I told him the story. "That was probably the world's first conversation by wireless."

I'd been reminded of the story because our evening train had stopped outside the North Station yards and the engineer was talking loud and long in whistle language. It was a monologue, though. There were no answering toots.

Later, I asked our conductor what all the whistling meant.

"Well," he said, "different railroads have different signals, of course. But on the B and M, when a train stops on a main line, the engineer blows one long and three short, to notify the flagman to protect the rear of the train."

"But don't block signals do that?" Bill asked.

"Sure," said the conductor, "but there's no harm in being extra careful. When the train is ready to go on, the engineer calls in the flagman. Four long blasts if he's to the West or South of the train. Five long ones if he's to the East or North."

"Gosh," I said, "you have a secret language all your own, don't you?"

"Nothing secret about it," replied the conductor, "but that's only half the story. Gotta go up ahead now, but I'll tell you the rest of it some other time."

Reading Defeats Punchard, 27 - 6

Reading carried too many guns for Punchard's inexperienced eleven Saturday when it scored a 27-6 victory in the Blue and Gold's first home game of the season.

Reading scored early in the first period on a 79-yard run by Murdock and with the exception of one or two offensive flashes by Punchard completely dominated the game.

Punchard put on a good drive in the third but was stopped when nearing the Reading goal line. A fourth period drive, however, went all the way for Punchard's only score but Reading came back to annex one more touchdown before the game ended.

The summary:

Christ Church Honors Rector

The Rev. and Mrs. John S. Moses were guests at a reception tendered them Sunday at Christ church parish house in celebration of the 10th anniversary of Mr. Moses' faithful service to the parish.

Attended by several hundred parishioners the reception was a delightful affair during which a substantial check was presented to them on behalf of the parishioners by Charles C. Kimball, senior warden.

The autumn decorations were done by Mrs. Charles Hollis, Mrs. John Stewart and Mrs. Herbert Farnsworth.

The committee in charge of the reception included, Mr. Kimball, Edward P. Dean, junior warden, Mrs. Scott Paradise, Mrs. Frederick C. Smith, and Norman L. Miller, members of the vestry.

The pourers were Mrs. Charles C. Kimball, Mrs. Edward P. Dean, Miss Marguerite Hearsey, Mrs. John Kemper, Mrs. Kenneth Minard, Mrs. Scott Paradise, Mrs. Ernest Young, Mrs. Matthew Colquhoun, Mrs. Walter Howe, Miss Ruth Saunders, Mrs. Howard A. Young, Mrs. David Robb, Mrs. Norman Miller, Mrs. W. Rodney Hill, Mrs. Geoffrey Glendinning, Mrs. Guy Howe Jr., Mrs. Wallace Brimer, Mrs. Edward J. O'Donnell, and Mrs. Irvin Wilkinson.

Mr. and Mrs. Moses are planning a trip to Europe in the summer of 1952, when they will celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary.

Open Adult Study Program Monday

This year's Andover Evening Study program for adults, which opens Monday, Oct. 15, at Phillips academy, has its full quota of unusual and interesting items. Top enrollee is Miss Lillian T. Spillane of 43 High st., who has signed up for a grand total of eight courses. A practical nurse, she attended Lowell High School, class of '44, and then Worcester Commerce High School in 1950. The only thing stopping her from taking a ninth course was the technical difficulty of studying in two courses at the same time.

A former Boston Post reporter has written from California asking for a transcript of the courses he took some ten years ago.

Many such events occur annually, which amply demonstrate the far-flung value and influence of this program.

FIRST AID COURSE

Beginning on the week of Oct. 15 another in the first aid evening course will be offered by Red Cross. A number of men and women have already signed up, but registrations are still being accepted at Red Cross headquarters. An early telephone call to Andover 1496 is urged for any who may wish to join.

that is a member of the Andover board of trade. Voting to be limited to one vote for any firm or professional office. All members must agree to abide by the laws of the Andover board of trade, and all members must be approved by the board of directors."

It was also decided that 25 members present shall constitute a quorum, and in the adoption of Article III it was voted that "the standing committees shall be, membership, publicity, merchants, industrial, professional and any others as the occasion arises."

Otherwise, with few minor changes, the report of the organization committee on the constitution and by-laws was adopted as read.

T. Augustine Farragher, chairman of the Christmas lighting committee, reported that plans are being arranged to have the lights turned on the night before Thanksgiving. This will be combined with a Thanksgiving eve celebration with a big parade being arranged by the Boosters club as a football rally prior to the annual Thanksgiving day game.

The lighting committee, originally composed of Mr. Farragher, Forrest Noyes, Irma C. Beene, John N. Cole and Charles Hill Jr., has been enlarged to include Miss Miriam Putnam, William A. Doherty, John H. Grecoe, Joseph W. Connor, J. D. Hill, Samuel M. Glazerman, Eugene A. Bernardin Jr., Charles A. Swift, Lee Noyes, John J. Hewitt, Carl E. Elander and Guy B. Howe Jr.

It was voted to hold the next meeting the first Monday in November at a place to be designated later.

PUNCHARD HIGH

By JANET THOMPSON

Massachusetts Drama Festival
A meeting of the executive board of the Massachusetts High School Drama Guild was held Saturday at the home of Mervin E. Stevens of the Punchard faculty.

Since so many high schools wish to enter the Massachusetts drama festival this year, the festival will be run on a different basis from that of previous years. The high schools in the various parts of Massachusetts will compete in sectional play-offs at Northampton, Fall River, or in a north-eastern Massachusetts city, still to be decided upon. These play-offs will be held the weekend of March 21 and 22.

The sectional winners will then participate in the finals, to be held here at Punchard, Saturday, April 5.

The Living Constitution

During this year's legislative session, the state of California took a step which should be followed throughout the country. The California legislature passed a law which requires that a course in the constitution and in American history be a condition for graduation from high schools, junior colleges, state colleges, and the state university.

That requirement—coming at a time when enemies within and without the nation are bent on destroying the letter and spirit of the constitution—is a matter of the utmost importance.

The constitution is our first line of defense against tyranny and oppression. As Percy V. Long, a leading San Francisco attorney and author of "The Story of the Constitution" has written, "Under the constitution the only power to govern is under 'rule of law,' securing to the individual the right to go and to come and to stay; to enjoy the family relations; to pursue honest industry and innocent recreation; to exercise freedom of opinion, of worship, and of speech; and the rights of private property.

"To secure these rights governments are instituted among men," as stated in the Declaration of Independence. It was the message to the world, proclaiming the American philosophy of government."

That message was never more vital to our strength and our very survival than now. There can be no question that much of the teaching in our schools, and particularly colleges, along with many of the textbooks in current use, is inimical to the Constitution and to those liberties it guarantees. California has taken a splendid step. No young person should be allowed to graduate from school or college without a thorough understanding of those eternal, living principles upon which our nation was created.

Could You Escape?

What would you do if you awoke at night and found yourself trapped in a burning building? Could you escape quickly and safely, or would you become one of the many hundreds of night fire victims who fail to escape?

Studies of the causes of loss of life in night fires indicate that hundreds lose their lives each year because of lack of proper planning. Proper planning is divided into two steps: 1, planning living quarters so that there are ready and sufficient means of escape, particularly for persons above the second floor, and 2, planning a person's course of action if confronted with an actual fire emergency. In checking with fire departments in numerous cities the American Mutual Liability Insurance company finds that approximately 60% of fire fatalities occur from night fires.

An important step in planning against night fire is a family rehearsal with a safe and orderly exit for every member of the family. When sleeping away from home take a few moments before retiring to plan your escape in case of fire. With such precautions much of the horror of finding yourself trapped by fire at night can be avoided.

New Books (Fiction)

This Was Tomorrow, Thane. Elswyth Thane has written a sixth in her Williamsburg series; this one covers the 1934-38 period, from Barthou's assassination to the hour of Munich.

With All My Heart, Barnes. Historical novel of Catherine of Braganza and Charles II of England.

Mr. Smith, Bromfield. In his middle forties, Mr. Smith, an average man, awoke to the fact that the pattern of his life was too set and too monotonous to be worth a cent; this is his escape and chance to read-just.

A Certain Widow, Dever. A newspaperman's widow decided to shape the lives of her sons so that they would carry on the crusade of her dead husband. One was to be a politician, the other a priest; nothing was to interfere!

This Pleasant Lea, Crone. Another lovely story by the author of Bridie Steen, with the Irish lilt and imagination that makes the simplest love story a delight.

Moonfleet, Falkner. Set in the period of the late 1700's, this thrilling story of piracy and adventure ranks with Stevenson's Treasure Island.

Adventures, Mysteries

A Rough Shoot, Household; The Case Of The Fiery Fingers, Gardner; Night At The Vulcan, Marsh; Eagle Trail, Bardwell; The Loneliest Girl In The World, Fearing; The Saint Meets His Match, Charteris; Duenna To A Murder, King; Alias Basil Willing, McCloy; The New Shoe, Upfield.

The girl scouts now have eight Brownie troops and six intermediate troops in Andover.

Non-Fiction:

White Man Returns, Keith. Agnes Keith and her family returned to their island home in North Borneo after the harrowing war years which she has described in her book "Three Came Home." This is the story of their readjustment to the old ways and their reunion with old friends.

In Search Of London, Morton. Morton's first book of the same title won for him an amazingly large following for all his "in search of" series. Here he describes the two Londons he has known—the city of his youth and the present day post-war London. Excellent as a travel companion and delightful for armchair wandering.

Your Weight And Your Life, George. A doctor tells how to keep at the proper weight, without discomfort and privation. He exploded many of the misconceptions of overweight. Includes three well-balanced diets.

The King And I, Hammerstein. Delightful play version of the famous "Anna and the King of Siam."

The New Joy Of Cooking, Rombauer. Completely revised edition of one of the best-selling cook-books written.

Man And The State, Maritain. First of a proposed series on the philosophy of democracy as a workable system. Maritain reaffirms the basic principle "the state is for man, not man for the state," and discusses sovereignty, political ethics, human rights, etc.

HERE'S TO YOUR HEALTH

DENTAL CARE

Even though the teeth seem to be sound and healthy, it is wise to have a dentist examine them and give the necessary as often as he thinks desirable. With regular dental supervision, including X-ray examinations, the beginning signs of troublesome conditions which might lead to painful root abscesses, or gumboils, or to the premature loss of teeth can be discovered and corrected.

Dental caries often begins with a break in the enamel no larger than a pinprick and spreads to the pulp chamber where the nerves and blood vessels are located. If found in time, the decayed areas can be removed by the dentist before they spread and the cavities can be closed up with permanent fillings.

Legion Gets Facts On Blood Program

Miss Barbara Loomer, executive secretary of Andover chapter, American Red Cross, gave a very enlightening talk on the blood program at the meeting of Andover post, 8, American Legion last Thursday.

Miss Loomer pointed out that any resident of the town is entitled to free blood at any time, but in order to get it the Red Cross headquarters must be contacted, otherwise it will be given from the hospital supply at a cost of $25 a pint. Red Cross blood is free.

The post voted to have the annual Poppy day Nov. 10, and the annual Armistice day dinner Monday, Nov. 12.

The next meeting Thursday, Oct. 18, will be a social night with open house. A movie program will be provided through the courtesy of Miss Miriam Putnam, librarian. The program is open to the public.

Church Basketball Meeting Tonight

An important meeting of the Inter-church Basketball league for the coming season will be held at the Free church at 7 p.m., Thursday, Oct. 11.

Officers for the year are, the Rev. Levering Reynolds Jr., of the Free church, president; Donald Anderson of the Baptist church vice president; E. Russell of the Ballardvale Congregational church, secretary; and H. Gurry of St. Augustine's church, treasurer.

All coaches and church representatives are requested to be present to decide on several important matters.

PLAN BIG PARADE FOR HALLOWE'EN

entertainment will be presented. As a diversion from the two previous years the children from Indian Ridge and from Ballardvale will board busses at this point and return to their own districts where parties will be held for them.

Music will be provided for the parade by members of Punchard's all-girl band who volunteer to lead the merrymakers in this grotesque pageant.

Trial Justice Richard K. Gordon is in charge of the prizes which will be awarded for various types of costumes. James R. Mosher is in charge of the entertainment program and promises something unusual.

It is planned to have the entertainment at the Memorial auditorium end about 9 o'clock so that the younger children can go home at that hour, after which dancing will start for the junior and senior high school groups.

Miss Dorothy Ann Dodge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Dodge, 47 Summer st., was elected president of her class at the Fay school for the academic year 1951 and 1952.

Here's why Fordomatic puts them all in the past!

For the past year, automotive writers, engineers and owners have been raving about a new kind of automatic driving . . . and here's why you get it only in Ford Cars:

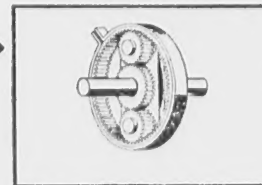

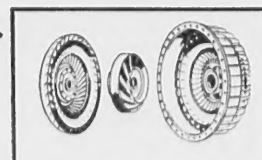

All the power you need when you need it!

Some automatics have this

The automatic drive some cars offer you is a torque converter which multiplies torque without the use of gears. Its advantage is a smooth flow of power. Its disadvantage is a smaller range of torque multiplication which requires more power from the engine and an uneconomical axle ratio which increases costs.

Some automatics have this

Other cars offer an automatic drive that uses automatic gears (as illustrated in simplified form at right) instead of a torque converter. The advantage here is more "go," more control and greater economy. The disadvantage is that this system is not as smooth, nor as jerk-free as a torque converter.

It gives you instant "GO!"

It practically drives itself!

But Fordomatic has both

Yes, Fordomatic has a torque converter plus automatic gears. It brings you only the advantages of both drives. Unlike cars with only a torque converter (which start and cruise all in one drive gear), Fordomatic starts fast and smooth in Intermediate Gear then shifts itself into Drive Gear.
